

Newsletter - CORRECTION

December 5th, 2018

Good Morning GBR ASSP Memeber,

This morning's newsletter contained incorrect information. Our meeting is December 18th, not November 18th. Also, the sponsor's name was misspelled. My apologies to Mr. Glenn Young of Glenn Young and Associates.

A Message from our Chapter President

Greetings all! Now that we've all had a chance to catch up on all things pumpkin and candy, we're able to turn the corner into this year's homestretch. This year has flown by, and I hope that it has been a productive and successful one as we approach the holiday season.

Thank you to members who attended our November meeting for our annual OSHA Update. Many thanks to Alex Novas for keeping us in the loop on OSHA activities as we transition to a new Area Director. Also, another thank you to Lance Roux and SafetyPro Resources for sponsoring the November meeting.

This month we're headed to a new facility, Gulf Gatherings. Food is being catered from Montalbano's, which was excellent previously. Our speaker this month is Glenn Young, CSP who'll be presenting "How Your Own Safety Rules Impede Site Safety." Our meeting sponsor is FallTech.

ASSP's annual SeminarFest is being held January 24th-31st in Las Vegas. Members interested in participating will be able to save by registering for courses prior to December 15th.

The ASSP Region PDC is going to be held February 21st-22nd, 2019 in Savannah, GA. This is a great opportunity to support our organization at the regional level, as well as network, and enjoy a beautiful city. If you are interested in attending, more information can be found at <http://regionpdc.com>.
